

TRUMP PLANS VEGAS TOWER II

SALES for a second Las Vegas Trump Tower will launch early next year to coincide with the new season of "The Apprentice," the hit NBC reality T.V. show starring Donald Trump. The series pits business hopefuls against another to win a job within The Trump Organization.

The show's sixth season will focus on developing a marketing plan for Trump's next condo-hotel tower.

The new 645-foot-tall high-rise will be located alongside the $500 million Trump Tower, currently under construction by Perini Building Co. behind the New Frontier Hotel and Casino. The 64-story, gold-glass, high-rise tower will have 1,282 condo-hotel units, two restaurants, a pool deck and an 800-space parking garage. It's expected to finish in early 2008.

Trump Tower I sold out in under a week, despite prices of $600,000 to $6 million. A handful of units have since become available due to cancellations.

The second tower, meanwhile, will be a mirror image of the first in height, size and appearance, but will likely have more meeting-room space and studio units.

Tower II, unlike its predecessor, will go directly to sales with no reservation period. A groundbreaking date has yet to be announced. RE